

My New Home

by Ma Xin Hui (3C)

My name is Ma Xin Hui. I lived in Hunan, China, before coming to Hong Kong. I feel that Hong Kong is a very modern city with a comfortable environment, and the people here are very polite. In contrast, I don't like my hometown because it was too noisy. Now I live in Mong Kok with my my father, mother and brother.

In my hometown, I often went running in a playground with my friends. Sometimes I did my homework or watched TV at home. My hobby is listening to music. Now in Hong Kong I have many new friends and I feel great.

I think Hong Kong is a nicer place than my hometown because the people here are more cultured and civilised. In my opinion, although Hong Kong is small, there are many interesting places. Hence, I really like Hong Kong. In the future, I would like to further my study in Hong Kong and find a good job here. I hope I could achieve my goal.
