

My Unforgettable Sports Day By Jason

On 19th September, 2017, my first Buddhist Wong Fung Ling College sports day was held in Siu Sai Wan Sports Ground. In the morning, I was a little mad because it rained; but luckily, it stopped soon and the weather turned sunny. At the opening ceremony, we sang the school song and I almost fell asleep at the spectator stands while listening to the principal's speech. When the speech ended, I became alive again because the events would start right after the opening ceremony and I had to go to 200m sprint, 800m race and discus.

I watched excitedly at the spectator stands and asked the teachers when I should report for the races. I waited for a long time before the 200m sprint began. Unluckily, I lost in the first round. But I did not give up. I sat at the spectator stands and pondered over how to improve my skills. "I will join again next year!" I said to myself.

On the second day of sports day, I forgot the time and I arrived late. All the races had started and I saw my classmates running on the racetracks. When all the races finished, the award presentation ceremony started. My classmates didn't get any prizes because we lost in all the races. The principal gave the certificates of recognition to the old students and representatives of other schools. Afterwards, we went back home.
