Heart Signal

‘Hey! Anna, did you hear that there will be a dating show called Heart Signal?’ Mary asked excitedly, ‘Why don’t you take part in this show? You have been single for a long time. Go and find your Mr. Right! Also, you may become famous!’

‘Oh, are you serious? But I’m afraid that no one will love me,’ answered Anna.

‘Hey! Come on! Believe in yourself! You can do it! You are pretty and elegant, Men must be fascinated by you!’ Mary said encouragingly.

Anna was persuaded. She really felt lonely and she looked forward to finding her soulmate. She particularly envied those who had boyfriends, especially on Valentine’s Day.

On the first day of the show, Anna was told that she and other three ladies had to live in an apartment with four men for one month. The director hoped they could find their real love during the time.

‘Have we met anywhere?’ asked Andy, who was one of the participants. He asked Anna as they met on the first day of the show.

‘Sorry, I can’t remember it. Have we met anywhere?’ Anna asked doubtfully.

‘Have you had meals at the Spring Day Restaurant?’ asked Andy.

‘Yes! It was my favourite sushi restaurant. But it is a pity that it has gone bankrupt. How can you know that I had been there?’ Anna asked in surprise.

‘I was the chef in that restaurant. Now I’ve opened a sushi restaurant myself,’ said Andy.

'Oh my god! How could you remember her among thousands of customers? You are too destined!' One of the participants said.

Anna felt amazed. She looked at Andy and found that he was looking at her passionately. Her face suddenly became red.....

Time flies. When the dating show was over, Andy and Anna became couples. They became famous of their love story and every audience blessed them
