Book title: Matilda

Author: Roald Dahl

This book is about a little girl named Matilda. She is a very clever little girl. She has read all the books in the local library before she even starts school. She can multiply big numbers in her head quickly, but her parents aren't interested in her. They like money and TV, but they don't like books.

Matilda's parents are the important characters in this book. Although they are her parents, they mostly don't care about her and are very rude towards her. The character I hate most is Matilda's father. He is a very dishonest person and always scolds Matilda for whatever she does. The character I like the most is Miss Honey, Matilda's teacher. She is very kind and often helps the children when they have problems. If I were Matilda's father, I would encourage her to pursue her dreams and always stand by her.

This book is very entertaining and touching. I learn that not everyone will help you out in your life, even your own parents, but there are still some people who are willing to do so. I would recommend this book to my friends. This would be a great book for teens to read. The story could be better if the parents changed the way they treated Matilda in the end.
