

Zelma's Victory
Asedillo Jean Francine Lou

Yesterday evening, Billy was at Daily News Office finishing his essays. He was in a hurry to finish essays. When he finished, he stretched his arms and yelled 'All done! Now that I've done my essays, I can continue playing my favourite fighting game 'Zelma's Quest.'

Then, a few minutes after Billy tidied his desk, he took out a lot of electronic gadgets such as his game console and gaming keyboard. He had finished many levels of the game being his favourite female character of it. Her name was Zelma and she was fighting with a sword to defeat a monster.

Billy was really enjoying the game, when all of a sudden, Zelda came out of the computer screen and borrowed the gadgets from his desk. Billy was really shocked when Zelma took his stuffs and jumped back to the screen. Suddenly, Billy's computer screen blacked out. Then he heard loud sounds coming from the computer.

Billy then woke up. He was confused, realizing it was all a dream the next morning in his office with a note on his computer. It said, 'Broken computer'.
