

A Film Review on 'About Time'

2E (16) Mark Wu

The name of this movie is 'About Time'. The date of release is September 4, 2013. The main characters are Tim, Mary and Tim's dad. After watching this movie, I really like it because it touches my heart, especially the scene when Tim goes back to the past to see his father and spend the last moment with him. He even goes back to his childhood walking along with his dad on the beach.

The plot begins with the scene when Tim's dad tells him a secret on his 21 – year – old birthday: the men in their family have the ability to travel beyond time and change what will happen and what has taken place in his own life. So, he makes his first decision to find a girlfriend. Then he meets Mary and they fall in love later. They have children and they like to talk about little things in life. The climax is when they have their first date, and they flirt in the darkness.

I really like the dialogues of Tim's dad. He always says something that is meaningful and it really inspires me. For instance, he says that we should try to live each day happily and meaningfully because you would be able to savour your happiness in your future.

Also, I strongly recommend you listen to the soundtrack of the movie because when I listen to it, I feel like having a deeply romantic relationship with my loved ones. The movie is perfect, and there is nothing I hate about it.

"With all the tensions and worries that stop us noticing how sweet the world can be ... ". These words impress me a lot. I start to realize that we should not be saddened by some tensions and worries and we should take a rest and stop to see how beautiful this world is. Also, the movie makes me understand life is not as perfect as you think, but also not as bad as you suppose. Thus, there is a motto in the film: "Life 's a mixed bag and no matter who you are, just live a good life. "

Finally, I really recommend this movie to everyone, and only a few movies can touch my feeling. I believe you would like it.
