

How Amazing Life Could Be In 2100

3D Cheng Wai Chung

Have you ever imagined surviving in a Space City in 2100? If you haven't, just wait what might happen!

Living in the Space City could be so interesting! Here let me share some of my predictions.

Clothing

Nowadays people are used to buying clothes through surfing the Internet. But it might take a long time to receive the clothes you order and you need to spend your money on delivery. Perhaps we could use 3D printers to print the new clothes we want at home. In this way, we could save money and time.

Home

Today people always do housework by themselves. Consequently, they lose their leisure time. By the time when 2100 arrives, AI robots would have been invented by professional experts. They could take our place and help us finish housework as much as we want. Therefore, we can spend our time on other aspects of life like learning or leisure activities.

Entertainment

People are always shopping or playing sports as their entertainment, but having those kinds of entertainment all the time might be boring. In the future, we could visit some extraterrestrial creatures like E.T or aliens. Also, we could float around in the Space City when we want to travel somewhere. Thus, our entertainment could be more attractive and varied.

In conclusion, we would have lots of interesting things to do and we could spend more time doing whatever we want by the time the 22nd century arrives. We should look forward to 2100, and surely our life could be better.
