

2E19 Tan Darren

Dear Diary,

Today I went to Ocean Park with my mum! The first thing we did was to go watch the dolphin show; the tricks they were doing were seriously impressive! And afterward, I got the rare opportunity to feed the dolphins! Although I did get splashed by them, it was worth it. Then I saw the trainer train a small school of fish, but I was getting bored so we left.

The next thing we did was getting some food. My mum was interested in these "pizza rolls," which wasn't a concept to me yet, but it had a lot of cheese so we got it anyway.

Sometime later, my mum decided 6 pizza rolls clearly couldn't satisfy our hunger at all, so she went to the growing queue to get more. Then I saw a small parade with lots of mascots. I figured I'd got enough time since the queue was long anyway, so I took my digicam and left, disobeying my mum.

When I came back, my belongings and my mum had disappeared! Thankfully, a kind lady brought me to the service centre and I found my mum in tears. And when she saw me, she hugged me until I couldn't breathe, and she made me vow to never leave her side (at least until I was 14).

We played around until Ocean Park closed; then we went back to our modest little mansion at The Peak, but mummy realized she forgot her 2TB iPhone 17 Pro Max Cosmic Orange! Silly her.
